

Warrant Issued For Ellsberg's Arrest

DANIEL ELLSBERG
Professor faces warrant

Professor Charged In Secrets Leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Prof. Daniel Ellsberg for unauthorized possession of top secret documents and failure to return them, the Justice Department announced today.

The warrant was signed just before midnight EDT Friday by U.S. Magistrate Venetta S. Taspoulis in Los Angeles, where a grand jury has been investigating the leak of secret Pentagon documents pertaining to U.S. involvement in Vietnam. In Los Angeles, the Justice Department attorney in charge of the grand jury probe, Paul Vincent, said Ellsberg had not been arrested. Vincent said he did not know where federal agents were looking for Ellsberg.

Articles said to have been based on the documents have been published, then barred by the courts, in The Washington Post, The New York Times and

The Boston Globe. DUE IN COURT The Times and Post are due in Supreme Court today to argue their cases in a pair of Justice Department suits seeking to prevent further publication from the documents. In an announcement early today, the Justice Department said: "The material was described as separately bound sets of 47 and 18 volumes respectively of Xerox copies of a study of 'United States Vietnam Relations for the period 1945-1967.' The complaint described information in the volumes as 'descriptive text, cablegrams, memoranda, decision papers and other internal Executive Branch documents, all but one of which was classified 'Top Secret,' the remaining document being classified 'Confidential.'"

WAS CONSULTANT Ellsberg, 40, a senior research associate at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Center for International Studies, served as a consultant to the Rand Corp., which developed the Vietnam study for former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

A 1952 summa cum laude graduate of Harvard, he went to work as an aide to Asst. Secretary of Defense John T. McNaughton Aug. 4, 1964, the date of the Gulf of Tonkin incident in Vietnam.

The next year he went to Vietnam for the State Department as assistant to the deputy ambassador. Ellsberg has told interviewers he has read the entire 7,000-page study and wrote one part of it.

NOT AVAILABLE In Boston, Ellsberg's attorneys were not available for comment on the government action.

The Justice Department announcement said Ellsberg's first wife, Carol, was one of four persons whose sworn affidavits accompanied the complaint and warrant.

She said in the deposition, the department announced, that she learned in October 1969 that her husband made Xerox copies "of a large number of documents, some of which bore the classification 'Top Secret.' After Xeroxing, he cut the classification off."

She further stated she told Ellsberg what he was doing was "a criminal act and he could go to jail for it."

"Daniel Ellsberg told me he had done nothing illegal and there was no Official Secrets Act in this country," the woman said.

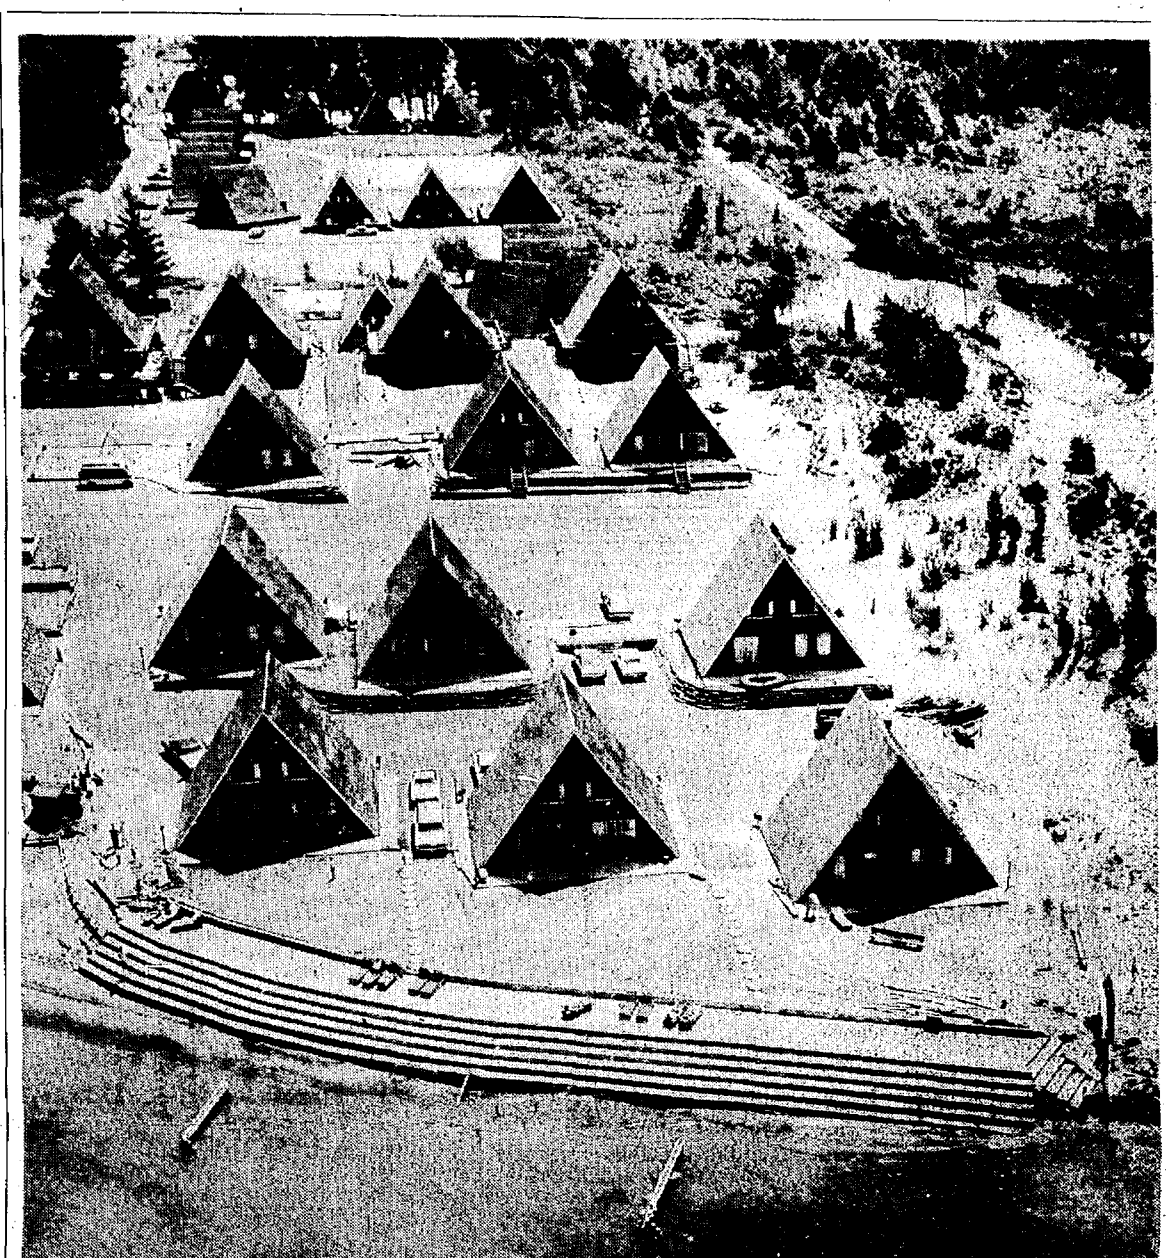

OTHER AFFIDAVITS The other affidavits were signed by an FBI agent, Cortland J. Jones, of Washington; the top secret control officer for the Rand Corp., Jan Butler; and Richard Best, security officer for Rand Corp.

The Rand employees said in their affidavits that Ellsberg had access to 27 of the 47 volumes of the set at various times between Oct. 23, 1969, and April 7, 1970, the Justice Department said.

Butler said Ellsberg was never given permission to take any of the documents out of the corporation's facilities in Santa Monica, Calif., the department said. BEATEN DOWN Efforts by Senate Democratic

SEAWALL MODERN: Lake Michigan property owners south of St. Joseph have refined the seawall into practically a modern architectural form. This aerial photo of Chalet-on-the-Lake at Stevensville shows that seawalls can also be functional as sun-decks. Extending back from the shore are some of the 51 picturesque A-frame Swiss chalets which dot the resort complex. Chalet Owner William Howard said although his resort was not threatened by recent high lake levels, he decided to install the seawall for future protection. In the foreground is the southern section of Howard's wall, constructed by T and H Construction Company of Coloma. To the north a similar wall will be built along the present shoreline. A center section will remain unwall for use in beaching sailboats, Howard says. Further north numerous other seawalls have been constructed recently by property owners to check lake erosion.

Defeat Of Tax Bills Intensifies State's Dilemma

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Senate soundly defeated a proposal Friday to hike the state income tax by 1 per cent after first rejecting a constitutional amendment to grant property tax relief.

The Senate voted 28-4 against the bill to boost the current 2.6 per cent personal income tax by 1 per cent Aug. 1.

Earlier, senators turned down the proposed property tax amendment 19-13. Twenty-six votes, a two-thirds majority, were required to pass that measure, up for reconsideration next week.

The proposed amendment would allow school districts to levy, or seek voter approval for, up to 10 mills for operating purposes. Methods for levying that sum would be spelled out in law if the amendment were approved by voters. In addition, the districts would be allowed to ask voters for an additional 6 mills—for a total of 16.

The Senate action, though far from final, left the state in a quandary, since the new fiscal year begins July 1 and no parts of the 1971-72 budget have been worked out.

Senate GOP Leader Robert VanderLaan of Kentwood said the vote against the income tax bill killed the measure in the upper chamber as far as he was concerned.

VanderLaan, who said he did not intend to seek reconsideration of that tax vote, turned the problem into the lap of House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit.

But Ryan, who watched part of the unusual five-hour Friday afternoon Senate session, called the voting a "premature trial balloon" that interrupted legislative leaders' budget negotiating sessions. And he said he would not initiate tax action in the House at this point.

VanderLaan has said the negotiating sessions were hampered by "too much Ryanism," called them "garbage" and said they are accomplishing little. He contends that the place to get the work done is on the chamber-floors.

VanderLaan said he considered the property tax amendment "the key to the whole thing."

Republicans want to put the question of lower property taxes for school operations on the ballot by itself. Democrats want that question hitched to the issue of permitting a graduated income tax in Michigan.

"And we're so far apart on that, the problem may not get solved in the near future," VanderLaan said after the Friday session.

With little debate early Friday afternoon, the Senate amended the original proposal from Gov. William Milliken or total elimination of the property tax as a base for school financing. They lifted his proposed zero-base to 10 mills.

Sheds Ties With Union

Hoffa Again Asks For Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa has made a new bid for freedom from federal prison, but not until he shed all vestiges of office in the giant Teamsters Union he once controlled.

In an application filed late Friday by his son with the U.S. Board of Parole, Hoffa seeks reconsideration of the board's refusal last March to parole him from a 13-year term for mail fraud and jury tampering.

The timing of the move—the day after his resignation from all offices in Teamsters affiliates—heightened speculation the Nixon administration had passed word that Hoffa's only chance for early release was a complete break with the union.

NEW PRESIDENT Chairman George J. Reed said the parole board would consider the application for a rehearing on July 7, three days after the Teamsters are to select a new president at their Miami Beach convention.

Reed said the board can grant a rehearing only if "new and substantial information" is presented. Presumably, the new and substantial information would be that Hoffa no longer holds any office in the world's largest union. He resigned the Teamsters presidency earlier this month.

Two separate decisions could confront the board. First, whether or not to grant the rehearing. That requires only two votes.

Second, if a rehearing is granted, whether or not to grant parole. This would take a majority of the board's eight members.

The former union leader has been in the Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison since March of 1967. When he entered, he faced only an eight-year sentence for jury tampering.

But shortly before the board was to take up his case last March, the Supreme Court reaffirmed a mail fraud conviction, which added five years to his total prison term.

Although the five-year sentence was indeterminate and technically did not affect Hoffa's eligibility for parole, it undoubtedly was a factor in the board's denial at that time.

Since the March 31 decision, Hoffa has sought unsuccessfully to have a federal district court consolidate his sentences so that they would run concurrently rather than consecutively. He also sought, unsuccessfully, a Supreme Court review of his jury tampering conviction.

Shortly after the announcement of his resignation as president, a Hoffa advocate met with Attorney General John N. Mitchell. The advocate was William Leeb, publisher of the Manchester, N.H., Union-Leader.

NAME COMES UP Mitchell said later Leeb had made no requests concerning Hoffa but conceded that the ex-union leader's name had come up during their discussion.

A few days later there were reports, neither confirmed nor denied by the Justice Department, that Hoffa's son had a series of meetings with Assistant Attorney General Will R. Wilson, head of the depart-

Supreme Court Hearing U.S. 'Security' Claim

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Supreme Court hears arguments today on the government's claim the national security is threatened by publication of classified Pentagon documents by The New York Times and The Washington Post.

HALTED BY COURT Ellsberg had been identified by a former Times reporter as the person who gave that newspaper the secret study of U.S. involvement in the Indochina portions of which were published by six other news organizations after a Times series on the 47-volume document was halted by a circuit court order.

The high court agreed to hear the case in a 5 to 4 vote in which the dissenting justices favored allowing both newspapers to print the documents without a hearing. Both papers were allowed to publish parts of the study today but decided not to do so until the court ruled.

However, the Los Angeles Times continued today a series on the Pentagon papers it began Thursday and The St. Louis Post-Dispatch on Friday became the most recent paper to report on the secret study.

Thank You, But Charlie Can Live Nicely Even If He Doesn't Sell Apples

This newspaper does not ordinarily reprint editorials from other publications. But it is doing so today, in the adjoining column on this page for letters from our readers, at the request of John Calsbeek, Benton Harbor.

The Grand Rapids Press editorial criticizes Benton Harbor's State Senator Charles O. Zollar for filing a bill to exempt processed fruits and vegetables from personal property tax. Since Zollar is a fruit grower, among other things, the editorial infers he is grinding his own axe.

The editorial is reprinted for a couple of reasons. First, it appears to be a classic example of a statement in which the writer has either not done his homework or chosen not to let the facts get in the way of his prejudice.

The second reason for publishing the editorial is that reader Calsbeek is a highly respected teacher of history and political science at Lake Michigan College here. His comment deserves attention, and his questions deserve reply.

This is the second consecutive year that Senator Zollar has attempted to put through legislation to exempt processed fruits and vegetables from the personal property tax. This newspaper supported his efforts last year, and it does so again this year. Michigan's personal property tax penalizes food processors unfairly relative to other manufacturers within the state. And it puts Michigan food processors at a competitive disadvantage with processors located in other states.

Unlike a conventional manufacturing enterprise which can tailor its production so that it has low inventories on Michigan's Dec. 31 tax date, canners and food processors must produce a year's supply of processed fruits and vegetables during the short harvest season — summer and fall — and hold the supply for distribution to consumers throughout the entire year. It is therefore impossible for food processors to arrange their production schedules so as to result in minimum inventories on tax dates. Other manufacturers make no bones about doing so.

The inability to adjust inventories results in excessive personal property taxes (as compared to manufacturers generally) being levied on canners and food processors inside the state.

Michigan canners and food processors are particularly hard hit by personal property taxes on inventories inasmuch as their competitors in New York and Pennsylvania pay no personal property taxes on inventories. The State of New York levies no personal property tax on inventories or on machinery and equipment. The State of Indiana has recently amended its tax law to reduce personal property tax on canners and food processors by 90 per cent.

Michigan canners and food processors who must compete in the national market with canners and freezers in New York, Pennsylvania, and Indiana are therefore seriously handicapped by the excessive personal property tax levied on their inventories in the state of Michigan. These taxes have not only resulted in reduced profits, but have depressed the price processors can pay Michigan farmers for their fruits and vegetables. Michigan's agriculture industry is sick. If it is to survive and grow, the tax relief provided by Senator Zollar's bill is vitally necessary.

It should be noted that Senator Zollar's bill does not relieve canners and food processors of taxation on buildings, machinery and equipment. These assets remain on the tax rolls just as they have always been. The bill provides relief only for taxes on inventories.

Senator Zollar's a wealthy man. But he made his money as an industrialist, not as a fruit grower. He became a farmer and nurseryman later on. He is not trying to pad his own pocket; he'll do very nicely, thank you, whether his orchards make him a profit or not. He is trying to save Michigan's food processing and agriculture industries.

If Michigan's processors fade or die, it won't be long before the state's fruit and vegetable growers do, too. And that would be a disastrous economic blow to the Fruit Belt senatorial district that Sen. Zollar represents.

The Grand Rapids Press and Reader Calsbeek have every right, of course, to oppose Sen. Zollar's bill. The facts of the situation, however, certainly do not bear out their personal inferences against the senator.

Reader Calsbeek was chairman of the LMC faculty salary negotiation team this past fall. He was credited by both sides with doing a good job. But in the process, he and other teachers picked up a healthy extra slug of taxpayers' money in the way of pay boosts. We haven't heard that anyone attacked him personally for padding his pockets at public expense.

Feminine lawmakers in the nation's capital may be no more conservative than their male colleagues in spending the money of the taxpayers, but they certainly know how to run a beauty shop.

The committee consists of Reps. Edith Green, Martha W. Griffiths and Margaret M. Heckler. So successful is the operation, half the investment was paid back the first year and the balance the second. Last year, the committee paid $8,000 "in

Reader Claims There's Another Side To Zollar

Editor, The Herald-Press:

Since local readers seldom, if ever, find anything but praise and laudatory comment from the Banyon newspapers concerning our state senator, Charles O. Zollar, I am enclosing an editorial from the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS (6/17/71) which presents another opinion concerning the activities and programs of our honorable senator.

It is my request that you reprint the PRESS editorial in its entirety as part of this letter to the editor.

Tax Privileges Out of Place

Senator Charles O. Zollar, chairman of the state Senate Appropriations Committee, takes pride in his image as a tough budget man — one who won't be stampeded into waste or needless deficit.

He also takes certain pride in his imposing figure, his booming voice and his ability to wheel and deal for political favors and favorites.

The latter is his political image, and it overcomes his frugality when Michigan fruit is involved.

Sen. Zollar is a fruit grower from Berrien County where fruit growing predominates. For the second consecutive legislative session the Benton Harbor Republican is seeking to exempt processed fruits and vegetables from property taxes.

Such a tax break would amount to approximately $1.7 million, a significant loss for the local governments and school districts involved. Other taxpayers, of course, would have to make up the difference if Mr. Zollar's bill becomes law.

Whatever inequities Sen. Zollar sees in taxing fruits and vegetables held by processors must surely be present where inventories of other firms are involved. But the senator's bill — and a corresponding one being submitted by Rep. Melvin DeStigter of Hudsonville — makes no pretense of equity. Their bills explicitly exclude Battle Creek's cereal maker from the proposed exemption. It would be worthy of Sen. Zollar, we believe, for him to polish his image as a tight-fisted budget fighter and forget the special interest legislation.

Try And Stop Me

The Women's Lib movement has provoked some blasts from resentful husbands. Mocked one, "My wife's such a terrible driver that the cop at our corner gave her a season ticket." Sneered another, "I never realized how much and how quickly a person's voice can change until my wife stopped yelling at me one evening and answered the telephone."

A pretty young miss, making her way in New York, was wont to forget that on the opposite side of the backyard of her apartment, an NYU fraternity house had its headquarters, and she didn't always pull down the shade when preparing to dress for a date.

One evening she couldn't decide between a red and a white undergarment and had changed three times when her phone rang. The voice on the other end informed her, "We've just taken a vote, lady—and it's five to one that you should wear the red one!"

Old Mr. Gotrox arose from his bed of assorted ills and pains to discover that sometime during the night he had managed to swallow his glass eye. Understandably perturbed, he rushed to a stomach specialist, who peered down Mr. G's throat, clucked with amazement, and declared, "I've looked into a thousand stomachs in my day, but I must say this is the first one that ever looked back at me!"

..And Speaking Of Your Health

Saving life is never a casual undertaking. Often doctors put in amazing efforts in pooling work and learning, in the prayerful hope of sparing a single life.

Such a situation arose in the case of a patient who seemed to be dying of the relatively rare condition myasthenia gravis. This disease, associated with marked weakness of the muscles of the body, has been tackled for many years with only moderate success.

The single case that recovered from near fatality was that of a young girl at Loyola University Hospital in Maywood, Ill. A team of chemists, researchers, and physicians groped into deep recesses of knowledge and, fighting against time, came up with a drug that saved her life.

Oxtriphylline was used after all other drugs had failed. Dr. Robert Jacobs, a specialist in drugs that affect nerves and muscles, explored every chemical lead until he and his associates came up with this drug which seemed to be startlingly effective.

The patient was a 17-year-old who was barely able to move her eyes or speak and had lived in a respirator for almost a year. She is alive, able to walk, and has hopes of survival. The gift to the doctors? A life saved.

Women's Liberation may greet with enthusiasm the fact that contraception by pill will soon be shared by men.

Dr. Dennis Lacy of St. Bartholomew's Hospital Medical School in London believes a chemical and hormone compound for men may soon be available to prevent pregnancy. The compound inhibits the production of sperm.

A series of studies are to be started soon based upon theoretical aspects of Dr. Lacy's findings. If they prove successful, the effects will be studied and restudied before being accepted as a long-range program for birth control.

There yet may be hope for converting to good sense those young people still not convinced that smoking marijuana is harmful.

Scientific literature reveals more and more evidence that this "non-addictive" drug carries with it tremendous potential psychotic who embarks on a regime of smoking marijuana may be doing inestimable harm to his entire destiny.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Only 45 Positions For 481 Teens

Jobs Lacking For Youths In Twin Cities

By BILL RUSH
Staff Writer

The Youth Employment Center in Benton Harbor has been able to find summer jobs for only 55 of the 481 teenagers that have registered since May 24.

Robert Bertweit, coordinator of the Youth Employment Center, detailed summer employment problems for youths during a report Thursday to the Twin Cities Human Resource Council at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

HIGH JOBLESS RATE

Bertweit said the center opened in late May but has been handicapped in finding summer jobs for youths by the high unemployment rate in Berrien county. He said his staff would "keep plugging away but urged local business and industry and even homeowners to contact the center if they have any jobs for area youths.

The center is located at 345 Twelfth street at the corner of Market about a block north of the K-Mart parking lot. The office is open from 8:30 to 4:30 Monday through Friday.

The center is sponsored by the Twin Cities' Chamber of Commerce, the Michigan Employment Securities commission (MESOC) and the Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC). MESOC and ARIC have sponsored a summer youth employment program since 1967 but this year were joined by the Chamber of Commerce in opening the center, Bertweit said.

MESOC furnished the staff, ARIC donated the office space, and ARIC and the chamber of commerce are making contacts for job commitments. The chamber sent out 1,100 promotional letters and ARIC mailed out another 400 requesting jobs for youths this summer, but local business and industry have responded with only 45 jobs, Bertweit explained. Another 10 youths have been placed in a special program with the Michigan Highway Department.

Bertweit said he "is very impressed with the young people seeking jobs. I am getting good feedback from employers about attitudes of the youths they interview. These kids show great persistence and enthusiasm for joining the work force and many won't be able to go back to high school without a job this summer."

Ocie Mitchell, director of the Neighborhood Youth corps, also reported to the Human Resource Council about his efforts in combatting unemployment among teenagers. The Youth corps almost didn't get "off the ground" but now has a sponsor in the Berrien Intermediate school district. "It's the largest program we have ever had with positions for 700 enrollees and a budget of $285,000, which is double anything we have had in the past," he noted.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps is federally funded through the U.S. Department of Labor and seeks to place youths in jobs with non-profit organizations. This includes jobs with city, county and state governments and with agencies like YMCA, YWCA and the Salvation Army.

ON-JOB TRAINING

Mitchell said he is saving 400 of the positions for youths in the Twin Cities area, and the other 300 will go to southern Berrien county and Cass and Van Buren counties. Enrollees attend the Benton Harbor Skills center or work-study classes at the high school and then spend the rest of the time in on-the-job training. The Youth corps pays the wages of the trainees. Mitchell said he too is having difficulty in finding summer positions for the youths and urged service and non-profit organizations to contact the Neighborhood Youth corps office at 423 Broadway.

The council heard a third report from Larry Nielsen, an assistant director with the Berrien County Olympian and Canamer games. Nielsen said about 12,000 youths are expected to participate in the games at some point this summer and that the program needs about $33,000 to finance the activities. He urged everyone to buy one of the Canamer flags which are on sale in the area.

Lakeshore Citizens Ask For New Millage Vote

A citizens group Monday will ask the Lakeshore school board to set the date for another election on a 5.5-mill tax levy.

The Lakeshore Committee for Better Education will present the board with petitions containing at least 700 verified signatures, according to Peter Van der Most, a co-chairman of the group.

The petitions request that Lakeshore voters be given another chance to vote on renewing for another year six mills of operating tax and the addition of 3.5 mills.

District voters defeated similar proposals in March and earlier this month. The margin of defeat narrowed from almost 800 votes in the first attempt to just 30 on June 14.

According to Van der Most, "at least 700" signatures have been checked against school records and verified by Asstant Superintendent William Galbreath. This exceeds the 590 vote minimum required by law, he said.

Prior to the June election, the board announced that it would not seek another millage election if the voters turned down the pending proposal. Their action, however, did not prevent district voters from initiating a millage election on their own.

Edward Strong is chairman of the petition committee. Co-chairmen are Don Goetz, George Schuch and Van der Most.

Policeman Saves Man From Fire

Prompt action by Benton Harbor Patrolman Michael Maruszczak who kicked in a hotel room door while searching for the source of a fire early this morning, was credited by a fellow officer with the saving of an occupant's life.

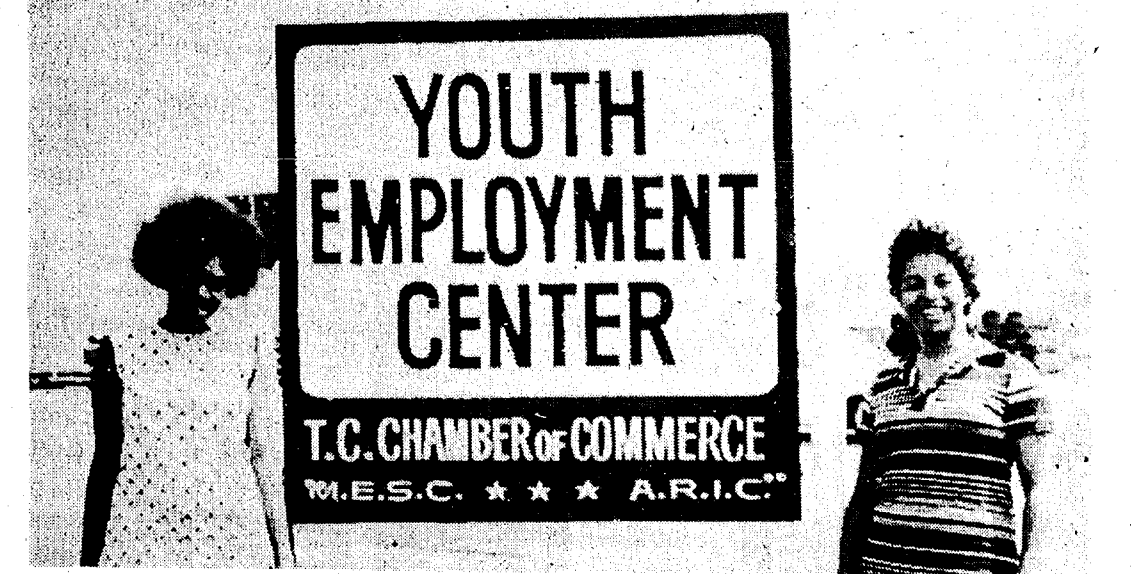

Patrolman Phillip Schneider said he and Maruszczak were called to the House of David hotel, 110 Main street, when smoke was noticed in a second floor hallway. The officers summoned city firemen and began arousing occupants.

Schneider said flames were suddenly seen shooting through a transom above one room and Maruszczak kicked in the door.

Schneider said the sound of the door being kicked in awoke occupant, Victor Morris, about 49, who scrambled out of a burning bed unhurt. The policemen beat down flames with a blanket and firemen completed the job with a hand extinguisher. Damage was confined to bedding and mattress.

Morris told the officers he is a sound sleeper and was unaware of the fire, until the door was kicked open. The officers said it appeared that Morris had been smoking and placed a cigarette in an ash tray beside the bed. It burned down and apparently fell into bedding, the officers said. No charge was filed against Morris, officers said.

City firemen at 9:02 Friday night were called to the Benton hotel, 130 Water street, when smoke odor was detected. After a lengthy search, firemen said they found that a cushion of a couch in one room had burned, been extinguished and overturned to apparently conceal the burned spot. Police reported that an occupant is being sought for questioning.

LAKESHORE

Vision, Hearing Clinic Scheduled August 2-6

Lakeshore parents with pre-school children at least 3 1/2-years old should make plans to attend the vision and hearing clinic at Lakeshore high school Aug. 2-6, according to E. E. Wiessner, chairman of the Lakeshore Lions club's sight conservation committee.

Michigan's pre-school vision law requires that any child entering school must have this test in order to be admitted. Included at this time are children born in 1967, in January or February 1968 plus those born in 1966 who were not previously tested.

The clinic is being sponsored by the Lions club in cooperation with Lakeshore schools and the county health department. Certified technicians conduct the program and there is no cost to the public.

Adventist

The organization, which served over 3,000 people last year, still is without a place of operation. Help is needed immediately.

Anyone with information about a new site can contact elder G. William Renton, 926-8891 or 471-1368, or Mrs. Raymond E. Zwiers, 925-2746.

Local Recycling Center Needs More Helpers

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

The Twin Cities' first recycling center at Sears' parking lot in Benton Harbor may die—not for lack of cans, bottles and newspapers, but for lack of volunteers.

United for Survival, the organization running the center since April, has issued a call for volunteers to donate a couple hours of work a week and the use of trucks, trailers and vans for short and long hauls.

Donors of labor and vehicles may contact UFS by writing United for Survival, PO Box 1011, Benton Harbor, or by calling Mrs. Ann Burke, project supervisor.

PLENTY OF TRASH

Area residents are bringing cans, bottles and newspapers faster than volunteers can sort items, remove metal rings from bottles, smash glass and haul the items away, according to a UFS spokesman.

A handful of women, students and a few men have been manning the center at Sears parking lot on Riverview drive Saturdays and Wednesdays. "We need young people to work two-hour shifts on Wednesdays or Saturdays," said Mrs. Ann Burke, project supervisor. "We need adults to supervise and instruct."

"We also badly need small trucks, trailers or vans for short hauls and a couple of five-ton trucks for trips to Charlotte every month or so."

A spokesman reported at least four loads of cans weekly have been taken to Continental Can Co. in Shoreham. Meanwhile volunteers hauled a 4 1/2-ton load of glass to Charlotte on June 11 but UFS lost money because a rental trailer cost more than earnings from the glass. In addition, a first load of newspapers was hauled away by a dealer who paid the organization nothing and did not report its weight, but a second load went to Eau Claire recyclers who received $50 from it for their recycling fund, UFS reported.

The UFS center's second headache is rubbish that can't be recycled.

"The organization hands out directions on recycling to users and posts signs banning anything but glass, cans, newspapers and magazines from the site," according to a UFS statement.

"Yet loads of rubber tires, mufflers, grass clippings, rags, plastic items and miscellaneous junk accumulate."

COULD MAKE PROFIT

As a final note, UFS is convinced municipalities here are missing a chance to turn a profit as well as handle waste disposal while conserving natural resources through recycling.

"The cities are organized and equipped for pick-up and have the obligation to dispose of these items anyway," said Mrs. J. D. Hartwig, UFS scenery pollution chairman.

SCHOLARSHIP: Matthew Houseal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Houseal, 1902 Sunset drive, St. Joseph, was the recent recipient of a $500 Chicago Tribune scholarship. The awards are based on academic standing, salesmanship, and service to the paper. A junior at St. Joseph high school, Matthew has worked at a carrier for the Tribune for 20 months and was named the paper's "Carrier of the Month" in May.

YWCA Sets Recreation Program

Sentence For Driver Now Ancient History

A sentence of three days in jail and $90 in fine and cost of driving without an operator's license was erroneously reported as having been issued to Tyrone Tony Blanks, 18, of 1520 Red Arrow highway, Benton township, on June 18 in Fifth District court.

The sentence was actually issued last August and the case was in District court again only for final payment of the assessment from last August.

Owner Of Building Files Suit

The owner of the Lion bar building in Benton Harbor, Tom Stale, filed this week in Berrien circuit court claiming $11,917.80 for damages, repairs and lost business allegedly resulting from the demolishing of the building next door.

His suit claims M.W. Stock Construction Co. and "Yerington Construction Co." demolished a brick building beside the bar in June of 1969, resulting in damage to Lion bar at 106 Water street and its temporary closing. The demolished building had housed a rear portion and side entrance of the old Enders department store.

Named as defendants were the two construction companies, the M.W. Stock Trust as apparent former owner of the demolished building, and Rex Sheeley as apparent present owner of the lot of the demolished building. All are of the Benton Harbor area.

A former Stevensville couple, Mr. and Mrs. S. John DeMeester, now of Kalamazoo, filed suit against Behrens Construction Co. Inc., of Kalamazoo claiming $21,213.54 damages for alleged breach of contract by the contractor.

The plaintiffs claim they contracted with the construction company in October, 1970, to build a $43,700 home in Kalamazoo but that the contractor failed to finish it in the contractual 120 days and completed some work not according to the contract.

William H. Kaiser of Route 2, Three Oaks, filed an appeal from Fifth District court and counterclaim for $50,000 against Clark credit union of Buchanan. Kaiser's suit claims the credit union improperly sold a 1966 truck repossessed from him and improperly sued Kaiser in Fifth District court for sums the credit union claimed were still owed on the truck.

Car Makers Hit Proposed Law To Limit Overtime

DETROIT (AP) — Executives of two automobile manufacturers have sharply criticized a proposed state law which would limit the amount of overtime a person could work and give the employee the right to refuse overtime.

"Freedom to schedule reasonable and necessary overtime is vitally important to the continued success and growth of the automobile industry—success in providing jobs, as well as success in attracting investments," said George B. Morris Jr., General Motors Corp. director of labor relations.

New Buffalo Boat Exams Offered

To help make National Safe Boating Week more of a reality, New Buffalo Flotilla 01-03 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct free boat examinations next week at Snug Harbor Marina.

The week, established by congress in 1958 and renewed yearly by presidential proclamation, begins July 4.

RULES REVIEWED

Some of the rules to be reviewed include knowing your boat, watching for overloads, maintaining lookouts at all times, operating at safe speeds, respecting and knowing the weather, keeping sufficient fuel levels, having necessary equipment, securing the boat properly while docking, and obeying the law.

One of the best ways to understand boating, the Coast Guard reminds, is to take a course in basic seamanship. Auxiliaries in the area offer one, three, and eight lesson programs in the field and one can easily sign up. For further information, call 469-3154 in New Buffalo.

Stating that "We cannot see the need for or the desirability of this restriction," Donald E. Scriven, director of the Hurly Personnel Office of Ford Motor Co., added, "We are convinced that this proposed legislation would adversely affect not only employers and their employees but the entire state."

Comments from both men were filed Friday with the State House Committee on Labor.

Morris said overtime was necessary to balance production between departments and plants and to meet sudden fluctuations in demand.

The "proposed limitations, Morris said, might 'prevent us from making full productive use of our facilities in this state and to make out-of-state facilities relatively more attractive to operate than our Michigan plants.'"

Morris also said the employees generally welcome the opportunity to work overtime. He said in a recent two-year period, employees filed 32,000 grievances complaining of missed overtime, but less than 100 protesting overtime.

The House labor committee is holding hearings on three bills—one to give the worker the right to turn down overtime, another to limit maximum hours of work to 54 a week, and a third to limit the work week to 48 hours.

Gunman Intrudes On Family

SOUTH HAVEN — State police here are searching for an armed man who entered a Covert township migrant dwelling early today and threatened a Florida family with a gun.

Thomas Henry McCoy, his wife, Lucy, and daughter, Juanita, 14, who are living on the Green Acre farm, County Road 376, said they were awakened by an intruder about 4:30 a.m.

McCoy said the man, a Negro male, about six foot tall, told them he didn't want money and "I've got to kill someone." He told police the man appeared to be under a state of drugs.

McCoy dove through a window to escape and ran in search of assistance, police said. His wife said the intruder tore her clothing and disappeared through a front door.

State police searched the area with the aid of dogs. The man remains at-large this morning.

Niles Store Robbed

Bandits Escape With Much Jewelry, Cash

NILES — Two armed bandits escaped with a quantity of diamond rings and $500 cash in a holdup Friday night of the Webb-Ring Jewellers, 202 East Main street here.

Roger Emig, manager of the store, placed the retail value of the stolen jewelry at $35,000.

Niles city police said the store was in the last seven days of a "going out of business" sale.

Emig said two men entered the building shortly before 9 p.m. closing and directed him to the rear of the shop where one displayed a gun.

Emig and four other employees, including three women, were forced into a back room where they were bound with nylon stockings.

The bandits scooped up the jewelry and money and told their victims not to move for 20 minutes "unless they wanted to be killed."

Emig worked himself free a few minutes later and called Niles officers. A police road blockade failed to turn up any signs of the suspects.

Emig described both of the bandits as Negro males. The case remains under investigation by Niles police.

OIL WELL HEARING

Dream Home More Like Nightmare

HIGHLAND TOWNSHIP, Mich. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shaw moved into their new home in Highland Township early this month, they thought it was a dream come true. But it has turned out to be a nightmare.

The house, located at 2700 Willow Lane, is on Lot 63 of the South Shores subdivision. The house was supposed to have been built on Lot 62.

The Shaws are using a Federal Housing Administration (FHA) program designed for low-income families to help buy their home, a single-story frame structure.

UNSURE FUTURE

But even with their limited income, they are so unsure about the future that they have retained an attorney to help straighten out the matter.

Arnold Ragin, head of the Ragin Construction Co., which built the house, said the mixup started when a resident gave him some misleading information about the location of lots in the neighborhood.

"This is the first time this ever happened to me," Ragin said. "I always kind of chuckled when it happened to others. It was an accident. I'm to blame for it. We're always careful—but we just slipped up this time."

The surveyor said the house already was partially built when he went out to survey the land for mortgage purposes.

"The building permit and lot number were on the house when we went out," said David Finney. "We found a stake and measured from that. I guess we compounded the mistake."

Finney pointed out that the survey was a mortgage survey and not a legal survey, which demands that irons be set and property corners measured accurately.

The owner of lot 63, Norman Rice, said he discovered the mistake after the house was built and brought it to the attention of everyone concerned—the builder, the title company, the surveyors and Highland Township officials.

WHAT NOW?

The Shaws are not sure whether their house will be moved to Lot 62, a new home will be put up, land will be traded or they will simply be thrown out.

They say they can't seem to get through to anyone at the mortgage company, can't get any help from the township and keep getting calls from Rice, who wants to know what's happening. Lately, they said, he has indicated he should be getting rent for the use of the land.

All the parties concerned are planning to get together this weekend in an effort to straighten out the situation.

Pair Gets $9,000 From I&M

A trio of Berrien probate court commissioners Friday awarded $9,000 from Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. to a Galien township couple in return for a right-of-way easement across their land for a 765,000-volt power line.

The award, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Howell of Route 1, Galien, came after about a half-hour of deliberation at the close of a three-day condemnation trial before visiting Allegan Probate Judge Dwight M. Cheever.

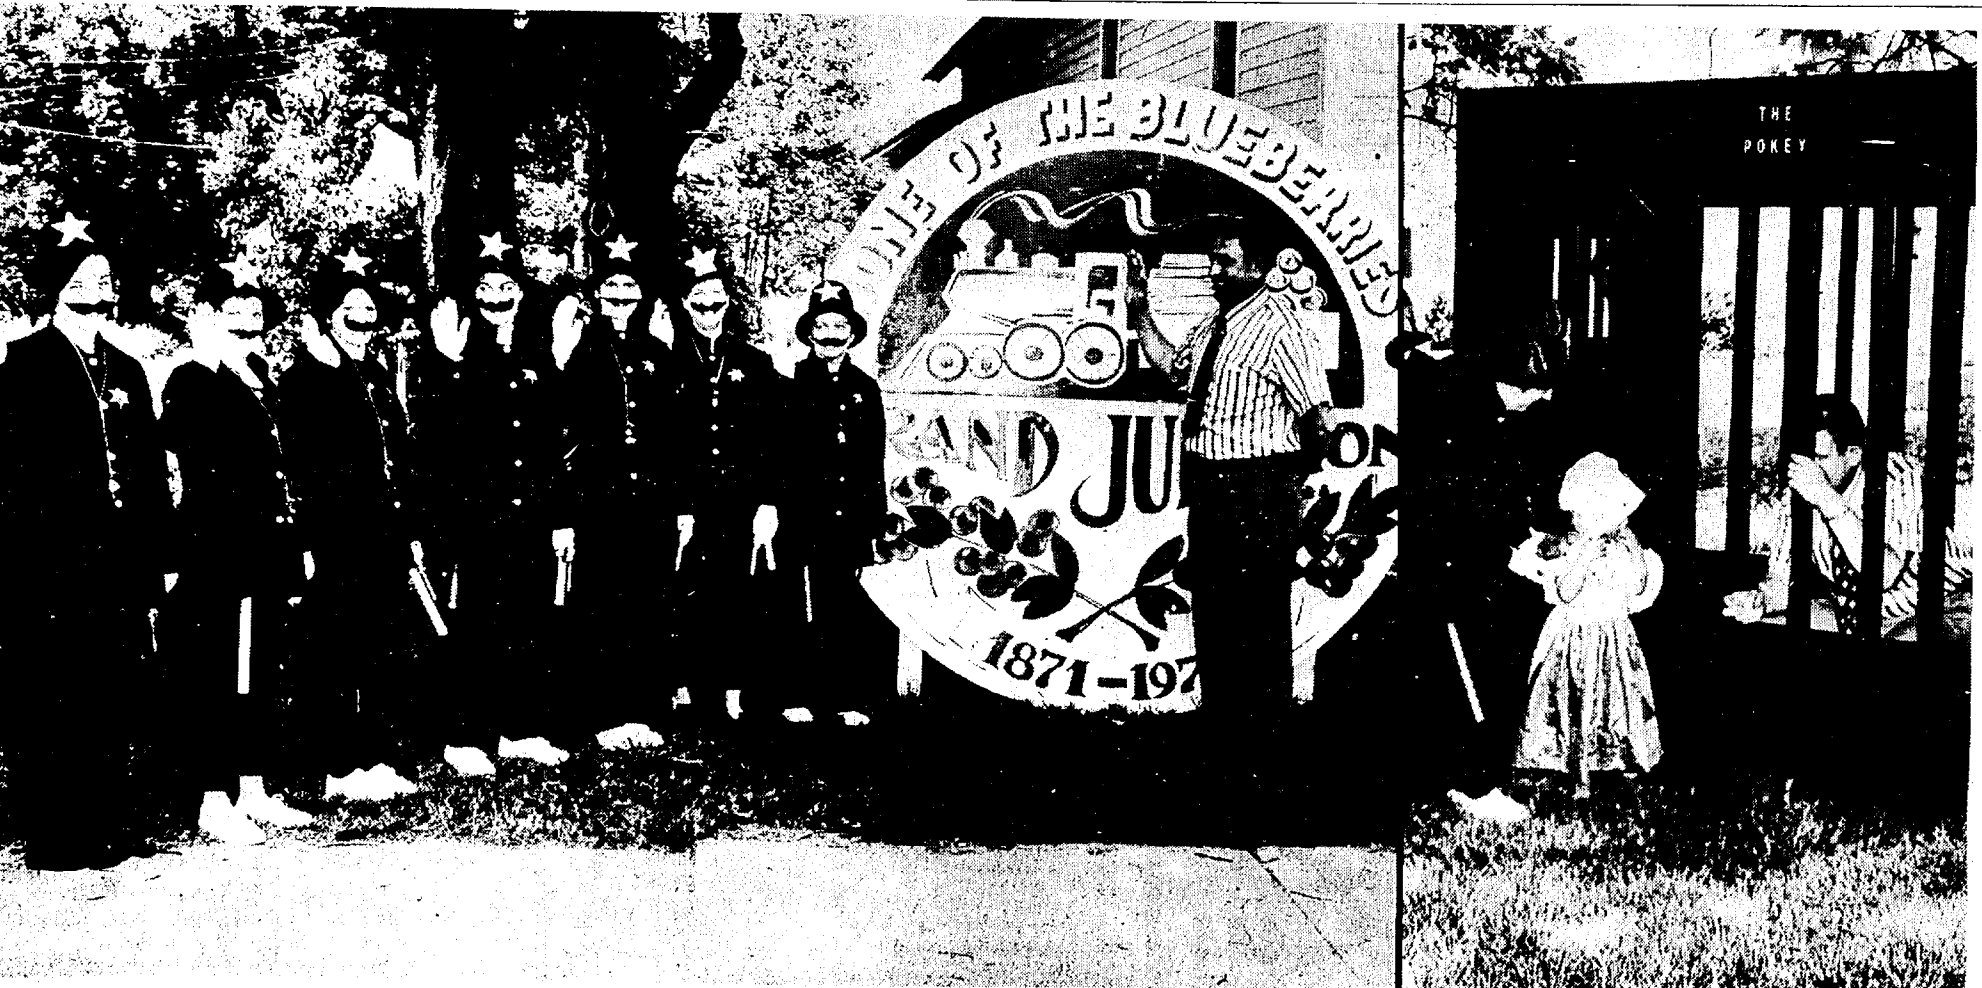

I&M receives a 200-foot-wide primary right-of-way easement across a 65-acre parcel the Howells own, plus the right to erect two steel towers at 134 1/4 feet and 137 feet.

The company was represented by St. Joseph Atty. Carl Burdick and the Howells by Niles Atty. Mowitt Drew.

INVESTORS' GUIDE Retirement Timetable That Ignores Gremlins

By SAM SHULSKY

Q. A young couple graduating from college expects to be able to put aside about $1,000 a month to accumulate $75,000 or $100,000, and then retire to the United Kingdom where the "income will go much further. What do you think of the idea? How should the money be invested?

A. I'm frequently amazed by letters from young people. Some give no thought to tomorrow. And here you are already planning retirement.

I haven't the slightest idea of how living costs in the U. S. and the U. K. will compare by the time you decide to retire. Nor can I offer any suggestions on retiring in another country—even one which has so many things in common with the U.S.

I think your idea of putting aside $1,000 a month is quite ambitious, to say the least. I hope you haven't overlooked the income taxes which would apply to an income capable of generating so much in savings.

The only point which seems clear to me is that this money—whether it's $100 a month or $1,000—will have to get into equity investments so that even if you are able to stick to your timetable you will have some hope of keeping your funds in step with inflation over the next decade.

Harry Foster, manager of MACMA's red-tart cherry division, said a sales memorandum stating base price and grade, plus a clause which states time and method of payment, will be offered to processors of tart cherries.

"We have asked MACMA members to sign a special agreement to authorize the association to sell and commit part or all of their tonnage to processors willing to reach agreement on price with us," Foster said.

Foster said around 60 percent of the total tonnage in the state is produced by MACMA members.

Silver Mill Frozen Foods of Eau Claire announced Friday a price of 11½ cents for top grade cherries.

SAIGON (AP)—Fighting ebbed today around abandoned Fire Base Fuller and 10 miles below the demilitarized zone, was hit by 12 rockets that inflicted light casualties on its South Vietnamese defenders and an American artillery unit.

A South Vietnamese infantry position two miles southeast of Fuller was hit by 32 mortar and recoilless rifle shells but reported no casualties.

The only ground fighting near Fuller occurred Friday. South Vietnamese headquarters said an element of the 1st Infantry Division killed 12 enemy soldiers one mile east of the fire base, which was abandoned under enemy attack Wednesday night.

SECOND AMENDMENT TO ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION OF NORTHWESTERN BERRIEN COUNTY SANITATION AUTHORITY

ARTICLE XIX
In the event that this Authority shall be dissolved either by statute, action of the courts, or by action of the Constituent Municipalities or by any other means, all of the assets of said Authority shall be sold either at a public or private sale conducted by the Board of Trustees in a manner designed to obtain the greatest return in the most expeditious way.

Upon the sale of the assets the proceeds therefrom shall be divided among those who were the Constituent Members at the time of dissolution. 1. Increasing the State revenue sharing program for cities, villages and townships by a minimum of $50 million from a tax source with growth potential.

c. The ABILITY TO PAY for local services, as measured by State Equalized Valuation.

3. Guarantee that each city, village and township will receive an amount at least equal to the amount which is would receive under the present program based on fiscal 1971-72 using 1970 population figures, rather than the 1970-1971 base year recommended in the Governor's program.

WHEREAS the foregoing program of revenue sharing will be of great assistance to the City of St. Joseph as well as to other municipalities throughout the State.
